Dean students hear theories of coverup in JFK as

By KENTOKARZ

FRANKLIN — Robert Katz of the Assassination Information Bureau in Cambridge feels the assassination of President John F. Kennedy was part of a conspiracy covered up by government agencies.

Addressing about 400 people at Dean Junior College here Tuesday night, Katz made the conspiracy and coverup charges after showing films and slides that he hoped supported those allegations.

Katz showed a "copy of a copy" of a film made by Abraham Zapruder who filmed the ill-fated Kennedy motorcade on Nov. 22, 1963.

The original film was purchased shortly after the assassination by Time Inc. for $500,000, Katz said, but for unexplained reasons has not yet been shown publicly.

Katz said "bootleg copies" of the film were made during the time the Warren Commission subpoenaed the film from Time Inc. in its investigation of the assassination.

The original film was studied by the Warren Commission before it concluded Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in the killing of Kennedy.

Katz's copy of the Zapruder film shows Kennedy clutching at his throat and beginning to lean forward after he is first hit; then he is suddenly rocked violently backward to his left, indicating Kennedy was shot from the front and not the School Book Depository to the rear, as concluded by the Warren Commission.

Katz did interject though that he understood the original Zapruder film, owned by Time Inc., was scheduled to be shown this Thursday, 12:30 a.m., on ABC-TV.

Based upon the injuries sustained by Kennedy, Gov. John Connally of Texas, who was riding in the presidential car, and to a bystander, Katz said he felt about six shots were fired in the assassination.

Those six shots, based upon the speed at which the 8 mm Zapruder film moved, were all fired within approximately six seconds, Katz said.

He then pointed out that the World War II bolt-action rifle identified as the one owned and used by Oswald, can only be fired a maximum of three times within six seconds "allowing no time for aiming."

The Warren Commission concluded that only three shots were fired at the presidential motorcade, Katz said, accounting for the various injuries in the following manner: one shot hit Kennedy in the head, one missed and hit a spectator and a third hit Kennedy in the back, went through his throat, continued on into Connally's ribs and finally down into Connally's leg.

Katz also showed slides of three persons being arrested by Dallas police shortly after the assassination on vagrancy charges.

The three, Katz said, were arrested on a railroad car that was leaving from an area where a gun could have been fired, accounting for Kennedy's being violently forced backward, as depicted in the "bootleg" Zapruder film.

No records exist in the Dallas Police Department of those three persons being arrested on vagrancy charges, Katz said.

Researchers, Katz said, have theorized that the assassination could have been coordinated by a walkie-talkie communication system.

An enlarged portion of the photo showing the three alleged vagrants being escorted by uniformed officers shows some type of item sticking out of one of the officer's ears.

Katz said it was a possibility that the item was a communication device. However, he said the officer had been questioned and replied that he had a piece of cotton in his ear

—A woman filming the position possibly shown from the presidential film confiscated shortly after —A human umbrella and vicinity where place, has this side as passes, movement in some type of figure in slide shooting is seen person in the away from presidential from.
